Geoffrey Douglas

Geoffrey Douglas is an author of a family memoir, Class, and a quasi-memoir that tracks the lives of six high-school classmates in the years following the Vietnam War, The Classmates. His other non-fiction includes Dead Opposite: The Lives and Loss of Two American Boys, which grew out of the murder of a Yale student and The Game of Their Lives, a story of the 1950 U.S. World Cup soccer team, adapted as a 2005 movie. This year he published stories he wrote for Yankee Magazine: The Grifter, The Poet and The Runaway Train: a Yankee Writer's Notebook.

February 1

On February 1 at 10 am in the Peterborough Town Library, the Monadnock Writers' Group will sponsor a preliminary round of the statewide 3-Minute Fiction Slam competition. The competition is open to anyone to read three minutes of original fiction to our panel of judges. The Peterborough winner will be invited to read at the state finals sponsored by the New Hampshire Writers Project. Time and venue for the finals will be announced in January.

Gary Metras

Gary Metras founded Adastra Press in December 1979. He is the letterpress printer, editor, and floor sweeper. Adastra has published 115 books, broadsides, and chiefly chapbooks of poetry by fifty-eight poets from across the country. A poet himself, he has published eighteen collections, most recently Captive in the Here and White Storm, the latter having been selected as a Must Read Poetry. In April 2018, he was inducted as Poet Laureate of Easthampton, Mass.

Rachel Sturges

Rachel Sturges headlines readings by teenaged poets from the Monadnock region. A juried panel of New Hampshire State Council on the Arts selected Rachel, a student at ConVal, as one of just two Youth Poets Laureate this year. As the letter of appointment states in part: “Your superior, crafted poetry contains imagery with emotion embodied in it, rather than simply talking about feelings; in other words, it looks outward from the self rather than simply at the self.”

April 18

Patrick Donnelly

Patrick Donnelly, director of The Frost Place Poetry Seminar, is the author of four books of poems and numerous poems published in journals. He has taught at Smith College, Colby College, the Lesley University MFA Program, the Frost Place, the Bread Loaf Writers’ Conference, and elsewhere. He lives in Western Massachusetts with his spouse Stephen D. Miller, with whom he translates classical Japanese poetry and drama. Their translations were awarded the 2015-2016 Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission Prize. Donnelly’s other awards include a U.S./Japan Creative Artists Program Award, an Artist Fellowship from the Massachusetts Cultural Council, the Margaret Bridgman Fellowship in Poetry, and a 2018 Amy Clampitt Residency Award.
